2CV

60 Jahre Citroën 2CV
1948 - 2008

Dear 2CV friends

After 18 month work the new 2CV catalogue lays in front of you. We give an effort to improve the overview. We adjust the structure of the catalogue to the original-citroen-order (like the repair manuals) and it is now identical to the online-catalogue.

In a listing behind the articles we give further useful information. First we distinguish the quality of the parts. That means:

0= A so called New Old Stock, parts which are new and not used, but partially already produced 30 years ago. We are looking for New Old Stock parts constantly. Please note that the articles have sometimes some rust. But very important: There is only a limited quantity available. When they are sold, they are not available anymore!

1= a reproduction of a spare part, which is better than the original

2= original part from Citroën or from the original supplier

3= reproduction, almost identical with the original part

4= reproduction, usable, but not as good as the original part

5= reproduction, much worse as the original part. But sometimes there is nothing else available on the market.

The column quantity: That means, how often you need this article if you want to replace all parts in your vehicle. A 4 at wheel bearing means, that you need this article 4x for 1 car. A 1 behind the brake pads, means that you need this article 1x for 1 car, as the packing includes all 4 required brake pads. We hope, that this systems helps you.

We want to thank Citroën Germany for their help.

Of cause a catalogue is never current. Therefore we recommend our Online Shop www.franzose.de. There you can see with traffic lights if the article is in stock.

The point "New Products" shows, if we have found new articles for the 2CV. By the way if you order in our online shop we grant 3% discount.

But now much fun with you 2CV

This pricelist includes 19 % VAT. If the invoice and the delivery address is in a not EU-country we exclude the tax.

MAXIMUS

Das ist es einfach!

Der MAXIMUS ist kein Wohnwagen - sondern Ihr guter Freund, Ihr stilvoller Begleiter für Ihre Wochenendausflüge, Oldtimermessen und alle anderen Aktivitäten. Sie können den Maximus auch als Anhänger nutzen - für's Holz holen, als Fahrradtransporter, für den Wochenendeinkauf der Großfamilie, um die Hunde zum Waldspaziergang zu fahren und natürlich als superbequeme Liegewiese.

Den Maximus gibt es in zwei verschiedenen Varianten:

Der Maximus - MAXI ist mit 155/80R13 Rädern und Stützrad ausgestattet.

Der Maximus - MINI wird mit 145/R10 Rädern (kleiner) und ohne Stützrad ausgeliefert.

Der MAXIMUS wird nur aus hochwertigen Materialien. (Edelstahlscharniere, Bullaugen aus dem Schiffsbau statt günstige Klappfenster etc.) hergestellt. Der Hilfsrahmen für den Aufbau ist genauso verzinkt wie die Achsen. Das gewährleistet höchste Qualität und bedeutet für Sie Langlebigkeit Ihres MAXIMUS. Der MAXIMUS wird komplett eingefärbt ausgeliefert - auf Wunsch auch mit andersfarbigen Kotflügeln. Umfangreiches Zubehör (Chromleisten, Edelstahlgriffe, Zwangsentlüftung u.s.w.) ist in Vorbereitung und auf unserer Internetseite www.FRANZOSE.de zu sehen.

Das Leergewicht beträgt gerade einmal ca. 211 KG, somit ist er der ideale Begleiter für Ihren 2CV, R4, VW-Käfer, Mini, Gogomobil, Isetta, Smart, Trikes u.a.. Der MAXIMUS macht immer eine passende Figur!

Citroën 2CV © Wikipedia

The Citroën 2CV (French: deux chevaux vapeur, literally „two steam horses“, from the tax horsepower rating) was an economy car produced by the French automaker Citroën from 1948 to 1990. It is considered one of their most iconic cars. It was described in his book Drive On!: A Social History of the Motor Car by longtime CAR magazine columnist the late LJK Setright as ‚The most intelligent application of minimalism ever to succeed as a car.‘ It was designed for low cost, simplicity, versatility, reliability, and off-road driving. For this it had a light, easily serviceable engine, extremely soft suspension, high clearance, and for oversized loads a car-wide canvas sunroof. Between 1948 and 1990 3,872,583 2CVs were produced, plus 1,246,306 camionettes (small trucks). From 1988 production took place in Portugal rather than in France. This arrangement lasted for two years until 2CV production halted.

History

The 2CV belongs to a very short list of vehicles introduced right after World War II that remained relevant and competitive for many decades — in the case of the 2CV, 42 years.

Pierre-Jules Boulanger's early 1930s design brief – said by some to be astonishingly radical for the time – was for a low-priced, rugged „umbrella on four wheels“ that would enable two peasants to drive 100 kg (220 lb) of farm goods to market at 60 km/h (37 mph), in clogs and across muddy unpaved roads if necessary. France at that time had a very large rural population, who had not yet adopted the automobile, due to its cost. The car would use no more than 3 litres of gasoline to travel 100 km. Most famously, it would be able to drive across a ploughed field without breaking the eggs it was carrying. Boulanger later also had the roof raised to allow him to drive while wearing a hat.

André Lefèvre was the engineer in charge of the TPV (Très Petite Voiture — „Very Small Car“) project. By 1939, the TPV was deemed ready and several prototypes had been built. Those prototypes made use of aluminium and magnesium parts and had water-cooled engines. The seats were hammocks suspended from the roof by wires.

During the German occupation of France during World War II, Michelin (Citroën's main shareholder) and Citroën managers decided to hide the TPV project from the Nazis, fearing some military application. Several TPVs were buried at secret locations, one was disguised as a pickup, and the others were destroyed, and Boulanger had the next six years to think about more improvements. Until 1994, when three TPVs were discovered in a barn, it was believed that only two prototypes had survived. As of 2003, five TPVs are known. For long it was believed that the project was so well hidden that the all the prototypes were lost at the end of the war (in fact it seems that none of the hidden TPVs was lost after the War, but in the 1950s an internal memo ordered them to be scrapped. The surviving TPVs were, in fact, hidden from the top management by some workers who were sensitive to their historical value).

After the war, internal reports at Citroën showed that producing the TPV would not be economically viable, given the rising cost of aluminium in the post-war economy. A decision was made to replace most of the aluminium parts with steel parts. Other changes were made, the most notable being an air-cooled engine, new seats and a restyling of the body by the Italian Flaminio Bertoni. It took three years for Citroën to rework the TPV and the car was nicknamed „Toujours Pas Vue“ (Still Not Seen) by the press.

Citroën finally unveiled the car at the Paris Salon in 1948. The car on display was nearly identical to the 2CV type A that would be sold next year, but lacked an electric starter, the addition of which was decided the day before the opening of the Salon of Paris. The car was enormously criticised. In spite of that, it had a great impact on low-income population.

It was laughed at by journalists, probably because Citroën had launched the car without any press advertising. The car was qualified as a „Spartan car“ or a „sardine can“ by many, other journalists called it „an umbrella on wheels“. Boris Vian described the car tongue-in-cheek as an „aberration roulante“ (rolling aberration) charging the slowness of this low-class car for causing Paris' traffic jams. History has confirmed that the car was charming in a lot of people's views, and a revolution in consumer transportation, at least on the French market.

The 2CV was a great commercial success: within months of it going on sale, there was a three-year waiting list. The waiting list was soon increased to five years. At that time a second-hand 2CV was more expensive than a new one because the buyer did not have to wait. Production was increased from four units per day in 1949 to 400 units per day in 1950. A special version of the 2CV was the Sahara for very difficult off-road driving, built from December 1960 to 1971. This had an extra engine mounted in the rear compartment and both front and rear wheel traction. Only 694 Saharas were built. The target market for this car was French oil companies, military and police.

In 1960, the 2CV was updated, and looked similar until the end of production. In particular the corrugated Citroën H Van style 'ripple bonnet' of convex swages was replaced with one using larger and fewer concave swages. The 1960s were the heyday of the 2CV, when production finally caught up with demand.

In 1967 Citroën built a new car based on the 2CV, the Citroën Dyane, in response to the direct competition by the Renault 4. At the same time, Citroën developed the Méhari off-roader.

The purchase price of the 2CV was always very low. In Germany in the 1960s for example, it cost about half as much as a Volkswagen Beetle.

In 1970 the engine size was increased to 602cc and the car gained rear light units from the Citroën Ami 6. All 2CVs from this date can run on unleaded fuel.

The highest annual production was in 1974. Sales of the 2CV were reinvigorated by the 1974 oil crisis. The 2CV after this time became more of a youth lifestyle statement than a basic functional form of transport. This was promoted by the Citroën 'Raid' intercontinental endurance rallies of the 1970s, (Paris to Persepolis in Iran was the most famous), where customers could participate by buying a new 2CV, (with a ruggedising kit to cope with thousands of miles of very poor or off road routes). Also, the Citroën '2CV Cross' circuit / off-road races were very popular in Europe.

In 1981, a bright yellow 2CV was driven by James Bond in the film For Your Eyes Only, including an elaborate set piece car chase through a Spanish olive farm. Bond uses the unique abilities of the modestly powered 2CV to escape his pursuers in Peugeot 504 sedans. The car in the film was fitted with the flat-4 engine from a Citroën GS for slightly more power. One of the many limited production series of 2CV in the 1980s was a series of „2CV James Bond“ vehicles fitted with the standard flat-2 engine, painted in yellow with '007' on the front doors and fake bullet holes. This car was also popular in miniature, from Corgi Toys. The special edition models that started with the 1976 SPOT model, continued in the 1980s with the (007, Beachcomber, Bamboo), some of which became full models - (the Dolly and the Art-Deco style Charleston) all made a virtue of the individual anachronistic styling. The changes between the special editions and the basic 'Spécial' model was only a different speedometer, paint, seat fabric, internal door handles, and interior light. Many of the 'special edition' interior trim items were carryovers from the 1970s 'Club' models. This probably gained former VW customers as the only other 'retro alternative' style of vehicle, the Volkswagen Beetle was withdrawn from the European market in 1978.

The 2CV in export markets

The 2CV was mainly sold in France and some European markets. In the post war years, Citroën was very focused on the home market, which had some unusual quirks, like puissance fiscale. The management of Michelin was supportive of Citroën up to a point, and Citroëns' cars with suspension designed to use Michelin's new radial tyres clearly demonstrated their superiority over their competitors' tyres, but they were not prepared to initiate the investment needed for the 2CV (or the Citroën DS for that matter) to truly compete on the global stage. Citroën were always undercapitalised until the Peugeot takeover. Consequently, the 2CV suffered a similar fate to the Morris Minor and Mini, selling fewer than 10 million units, whereas the Volkswagen Beetle, which was sold worldwide, sold 21 million units.

Some of the early models were built at Citroën's plant in Slough, England in the 1950s, but the 2CV sold poorly in Great Britain in part due to its excessive cost because of import duties on components. Slough produced 2CV sales ended in 1960. In 1959 trying to boost sales, Citroën introduced a glass-fibre coupé version called the Bijou that was briefly produced at Slough. Styling of this little car was by Peter Kirwan-Taylor who was better known for his work with Colin Chapman of Lotus cars, but it proved to be too heavy for the diminutive engine to endow it with adequate performance. It served to use up remaining 2CV parts at Slough in the early 1960s. In 1975 the 2CV was re-introduced to the British market (produced in France), in the wake of the oil crisis. This was without the crippling import duties of the 1950s, because the UK had joined the EEC. In the 1980s the best markets for the 2CV were the UK and Germany.

A rare Jeep-esque derivative, called the Yagán, after an Aborigine tribe, was made in Chile between 1972 and 1973. After the Chilean coup of 1973, there were 200 Yagáns left that were used by the Army to patrol the streets and the Peruvian border, with 106 mm cannons.

A similar car was sold in some west African countries as the Citroën „Baby-brousse“.

In Iran, the Citroën 2CV was called the Jian.[1] The cars were originally manufactured in Iran in a joint venture between Citroën and Iran National up until the 1979 Revolution, when Iran National was nationalised, which continued producing the Jian without the involvement of Citroën.

Only a few thousand 2CVs were sold in North America when they were new: as in England their pricing was excessive relative to competitors. The 2CV was built in Chile and Argentina to address this issue for South America. The Chilean version mounted a 602 cc. engine with an output of 33 HP, and was nominated AX-330 being built between 1970 and 1978, period where it saw some changes like different bumpers, hard roof instead soft one and late units were fitted with front disc brakes and square headlights. It's worthwhile to note that „For your eyes only“ James Bond 1981 movie, rocketed sales of this city car in Chile where it was specially imported from Spain to meet demand (mostly yellows), since it was already phased out in the Chilean assembly line.

Construction

The level of technology in the 1948 2CV was remarkable for a car of any price in that era, let alone one of the cheapest cars on the planet. While colours and detail specifications were modified in the ensuing 42 years, the biggest mechanical change was the addition of front disc brakes in 1981 for the 1982 model year.

The 1948 2CV featured:

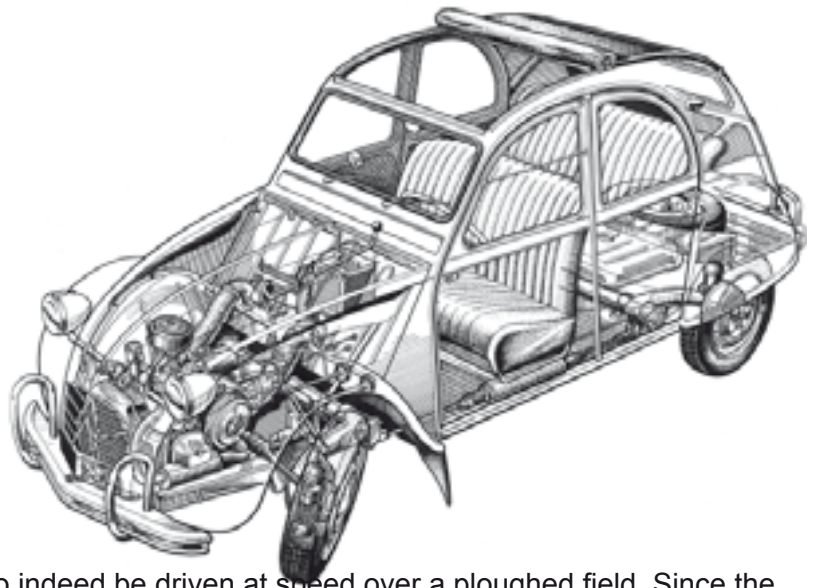

- * four wheel independent suspension that was inter-connected front to rear on the same side,
- * leading arm front suspension,
- * trailing arm rear suspension,
- * rear fender skirts, but the suspension design allowed wheel change without removing the skirts,
- * front-wheel drive,
- * inboard front brakes, in order to help lower unsprung weight thus making ride even softer.
- * small, lightweight, air-cooled flat twin engine,
- * 4-speed manual transmission,
- * bolt-on detachable front and rear wings/fenders,

- * detachable doors, bonnet (and bootlid after 1960) — by ‚slide out‘ P profile sheet metal hinges,
- * front suicide doors,
- * flap-up windows, as roll up windows were considered too expensive in 1948,
- * detachable full length fabric sunroof and boot lid — for almost pickup truck type load carrying versatility.

The body was constructed of a dual H-frame chassis, an aircraft-style tube framework, and a very thin steel shell.

The suspension of the 2CV was almost comically soft — a person could easily rock the car side to side dramatically (back and forth was quite a bit more resistant). The leading arm / trailing arm swinging arm, fore-aft linked suspension system together with inboard front brakes had a much smaller unsprung weight than existing coil spring or leaf designs. The interconnection transmitted some of the force deflecting a front wheel up over a bump, to push the rear wheel down on the same side. When the rear wheel met that bump a moment later, it did the same in reverse, keeping the car level front to rear. This made the suspension more responsive, enabling the 2CV to indeed be driven at speed over a ploughed field. Since the rear brakes were outboard, extra tuned mass dampers and later shock absorbers were fitted to the rear wheels to dampen wheel bounce. Later models had tuned mass dampers at the front with telescopic dampers / shock absorbers front and rear.

Front-wheel drive made the car easy and safe to drive and Citroën had developed some experience with it due to the pioneering Traction Avant.

It was powered by a flat-twin air-cooled engine designed by Walter Becchia, with a nod to the classic „boxer“ BMW motorcycle engine (it is reported that Becchia dismantled the engine of the BMW motorcycle of Flaminio Bertoni before designing the 2CV engine).

The car had a 4-speed manual transmission, an advanced feature on an inexpensive car at the time. Boulanger had originally insisted on no more than three gears, because he believed that with four ratios the car would be perceived as complex to drive by customers. Thus, the fourth gear was marketed as an overdrive, this is why on the early cars the „4“ was replaced by „S“ for surmultipliée. The gear shifter came horizontally out of the dashboard with the handle curved upwards. It had a strange shift pattern: the first was back on the left, the second and third were inline, and the fourth (or the S) could be engaged only by turning the lever to the right from the third.

In keeping with the ultra-utilitarian (and rural) design brief, the canvas roof could be rolled completely open. The Type A had one stop light, and was available only in grey. The windscreen wipers were powered by a purely mechanical system: a cable connected to the transmission; to reduce cost, this cable also powered the speedometer. The wipers' speed was therefore variable with car speed. When the car was waiting at a crossroad, the wipers were not powered; thus, a handle under the speedometer allowed them to be operated by hand. From the 1960s this was replaced with an electric motor.

The reliability of the car was increased by the fact that, being air-cooled, it had no coolant, radiator, water pump or thermostat. It had no distributor either because both spark plugs were fired at the same time, on every 360 degree rotation. Except for the brakes there were no hydraulic parts on original models as the shock absorbers were replaced by tuned mass dampers and friction dampers.

Engines

The car featured an air-cooled, flat-twin, four-stroke, 375 cc engine, with the notoriously underpowered earliest model developing only 9 bhp DIN (6.5 kW). A 425 cc engine was introduced in 1955, followed by a 602 cc (giving 28 bhp (20.5 kW) at 7000 rpm) in 1968. With the 602 cc engine the tax classification of the car changed so that it became in fact a 3CV, but the commercial name remained unchanged. A 435 cc engine was introduced at the same time in replacement of the 425 cc, the 435 cc engine car was christened 2CV 4 while the 602 cc took the name 2CV 6 (nevertheless it did take the name 3CV in Argentina). The 602 cc engine evolved to 33 bhp (24 kW) in 1970; this was the most powerful engine fitted to the 2CV. A new 602 cc giving only 29 bhp (21.5 kW) at a slower 5750 rpm was introduced in 1979. Despite being less powerful, this engine was more efficient, allowing lower fuel consumption and better top speed, at the price of decreased acceleration.

The 2CV also pioneered the use of the now common wasted spark Ignition System, also known as the DIS (Distributorless Ignition System) ignition using a double ended coil fired on each revolution, (on the exhaust and compression stroke), by just a contact breaker.

The engine's design concentrated on the reduction of moving parts. The cooling fan and dynamo were built integrally with the one-piece crankshaft, removing the need for drive belts. Instead of using the usual two-piece crank bearings, one-piece items were pressed onto the crankshaft with a hydraulic press once the crankshaft had been submerged in liquid nitrogen to cause it to contract (thus providing enough clearance to press the bearings on). Similarly, the contact breaker was driven directly off the end of the camshaft, meaning that the ignition timing remained accurate for years.

These design features made the 2CV engine highly reliable (test engines were run at full speed for 100 hours at a time- equivalent to driving 50,000 miles (80,500 km) at full throttle). They also meant that the engine was very much 'sealed for life' - the main bearings, for example, could not be replaced individually - the entire engine had to be replaced. However, the engine was very under-stressed and long-lived, so this was not a major issue.

When asked about the 2CVs performance and acceleration, many owners said it went „from 0-60 in one day“. Others jokingly said they „had to make an appointment to merge onto an interstate highway system“.

The last evolution of the 2CV engine was the Citroën Visa flat-2, a 652 cc featuring an electronic ignition. Citroën never sold this engine in the 2CV, however some enthusiasts have converted their 2CVs to 652 engines.

Expeditions

The 2CV has also been used for travel around the world. In 1958–1959 two young Frenchmen, Jean-Claude Baudot and Jacques Séguéla started at the Paris Motor Show on October 9, 1958, headed south and crossed the Mediterranean by boat from Port Vendres to Algeria; traversed the African continent and crossed the South Atlantic from Cape Town to Rio de Janeiro; criss-crossed South America and the United States and boated from San Francisco to Yokohama. They returned to Paris on November 11, 1959. During the 13 months, they drove 100 000 kilometres, and consumed 5 000 litres of petrol and 36 tires.

Citroen promoted 2CV events called 'Raids' in the 1970s and main dealers would supply a ruggedising kit. Paris to Persepolis in Iran was best known.

Nicknames

Popular French nicknames were „Deuche“ and „Dedeuche“.

The Dutch were the first to call it „het lelijke eendje“ („the ugly duckling“) or just „Eend“ („duck“), while the Flemish called it „de geit“ („the goat“). In German-speaking countries it's called „Ente“ („duck“), and sometimes „lahme Ente“ („lame duck“) — ironically, for its off-road abilities and swinging moves. English nicknames include „Tin Snail“, „Dolly“ and „Upside-down pram“. In the former Yugoslavia the car was called „Spaček“ (pronounced „spa-check“, meaning – affectionately – „small duck“ or „oddity“). The name was derived from the letter C (for Citroen), which reads as S in Slovenian and Serbian-Croatian, and paček, meaning „little duck“. In Spanish-speaking countries they were nicknamed „dos caballos“, „citrola“ or „citroneta“ (derived from „Citroën“). In Denmark, the car has many names: „Gyngehest“ (Rocking horse); „Studenter-Jaguar“ (A students Jaguar) while the cars, amongst 2CV enthusiasts affectionately are called 'De kære små' (The dear small ones). In Finland, the 2CV is known as „Rättisitikka“ (Finnish for „rag Citroën“) because of its canvas roof and in Tunisia they call it „karkassa“. Hungarians call it „Kacska“ (pronounced: „kacha“ and also meaning „duck“). In Israel it was called „עונחפ“ (Pronounced „pah-noa“, meaning „tin car“) and in Iceland it was named „Sítróen braggi“ (meaning „Citroën Quonset hut“). In Norway the name was „Jernseng“, meaning „iron bed“. In the United States it was known as the „flying rag top“. American cartoonist Gilbert Shelton referred to it as the „duh-shuh-vuh“.

Outside France, the 2CV's most common nickname today[citation needed] is „The Duck“, which seemed to be endorsed by Citroën which released a stuffed toy animal in the 1980s representing a duck with Citroën on its side and 2CV under its right foot.

The end of the 2CV

The 2CV was produced for 42 years, the model finally succumbing to customer demands for speed and safety, areas in which this ancient design had fallen significantly behind modern cars.

Citroën had attempted to replace the ultra-utilitarian 2CV several times (with the Dyane, Visa, and the AX), however its comically antiquated appearance became an advantage to the car and it became a niche product which sold because it was different from anything else on sale. Because of its down-to-earth style it became popular with hippies.

While not a replacement for the 2CV, a straightforward, unremarkable urban runabout supermini like the Citroën AX seemed to address the automaker's requirements at the entry level in the 1990s.

In 1988, production ceased in France but was continued in Portugal. The last 2CV, grey with chassis number VF7AZKA00LA376002, rolled off the Portuguese production line on July 27, 1990. In all, a total of 3,872,583 2CV sedans were produced. Including the commercial versions of the 2CV, Dyane, Méhari, FAF, & Ami variants, the 2CV's underpinnings spawned over nine million cars.

The 2CV was outlived by contemporaries such as the Mini (went out of production in 2000), VW Beetle (2003), Renault 4 (1994), VW Type 2 (still in production) and Hindustan Ambassador (still in production).

Four-wheel drive

One novel model was the 2CV Sahara, a four-wheel drive (4x4) car, equipped with two engines (12 hp each), each one having a separate gas tank. One was mounted in the front driving the front wheels and one in the back driving the rear wheels. A single gear shifter, clutch pedal, and gas pedal were connected to both engines.

It was originally intended for use by the French colonies in Northern Africa. As well as a decreased chance of being stranded, it provided four-wheel drive traction with continuous force to some wheels while others were slipping because the engine transmissions were uncoupled. Therefore it became popular with off-road enthusiasts.

Between 1958 and 1971 Citroën built 694 Saharas, but only 27 are known to exist today. The top speed was 65 km/h (40 mph) on one engine, but this increased to 105 km/h (65 mph) with both engines running.

The Méhari was also built as a 4x4, but with only one engine.

Various 4x4 conversions were built by independent constructors, such as Marc Voisin, near Grenoble, some from a Méhari 4x4 chassis and a 2CV body.

Although the terminology is sometimes confused, 2CV 4x4 generally refers to these models, whereas 2CV Sahara refers to the two-engined Citroën vehicle.

Wärmende Gedanken - Fahrkomfort Der nächste Winter kommt bestimmt!

Unser Heizluftventilator ist ein Axialgebläsemotor. Das bedeutet, dass er einen sehr hohen Wirkungsgrad hat, weil der Motor direkt neben dem Heizungsrohr liegt und so den Querschnitt des Rohres nicht mindert. Selbstverständlich haben wir auch den passenden Einbausatz für Sie parat, damit Sie Ruck-Zuck alles einbauen können. Als Alternative führen wir originale Heizgebläse, die in den Heizschlauch geschoben werden. Simpler Einbau - originaler - aber deutlich weniger Heizleistung als die Axiallösung.

2 CV Chassis

Made in Germany

1. Das neue Chassis ist mit Hilfe von CAD (Computer Aided Design) entwickelt worden.

2. Das Lagernde befindet sich eine geschwächte Röhre, die oben mit einem Beschützer versehen ist. (siehe Nr. 1, Bild rechts) Es kann auch optional best. für ein die Abfederung sein.

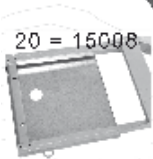

3. Die Röhre hat zusätzliche Distanzstreifen aus Alu geschweißt, die aus 2-fach geschweißten Flüssen bestehen.

4. Die hinteren Längslager sind zusätzlich quer verschraubt.

5. In diesem Bereich sind zusätzliche Kreuzstreben vorhanden, die an den Achsbereifung sind.

8. Auf Wunsch: Achsbremsen-Lager-Löscher

7. Die Federfedern sind in einem Bereich durch die angefertigten Gummifeder des Chassis ersetzt. Somit ist ein wesentl. höhere Stabilität gegeben, als wenn sie weiterhin aus Chassis geschweißte wären.

9. Leimband für Abdichtung Gummisette an Chassis in Defekt-Gummimaterial bisher über 3.000 mal ausgeliefert!

6. Alle Stützpunkte sind mit einer Schutzschicht versehen, die die Verschleißfestigkeit der Stützpunkte so gewährleistet.

Rolldächer aus Cotton-Stoff

Das Cotton-Dach ist wesentlich hochwertiger als die normalen Plastikdächer und werben Ihren 2CV auch optisch auf! „Da macht die Ente noch mehr her.“

Wir können diese Dächer als preisliche Alternative zu den Plastikdächern und den doch sehr teuren Sonnenlandverdecken nur empfehlen.

Eine kleine „Mehr“-Investition, die sich „mehr“ als lohnt!

Seit 2007 sind die schwarzen Cotton-Verdecke dreilagig verarbeitet und damit wesentlich besser und fast so gut wie die Sonnenlandverdecke!

Damit Sie lange etwas von Ihrem Cotton-Dach haben sollten Sie mind. zweimal jährlich Ihr Rolldach imprägnieren!

Sitzfläche

Wir haben für die 2CV-Sitze eine neue Unterpolsterung entwickelt.

Wir sind neue Wege gegangen und haben uns lange überlegt, wie wir den Sitzkomfort optimieren können. Nach einigen Versuchen sind wir zu der jetzt vorgestellten „Gurt“-Lösung gekommen.

Die alte Konstruktion (Gummiringe + Leinenbezüge) fallen dadurch weg. Die neuen Gurte werden nur eingehakt. Darüber kommt dann der Schaumstoff und dann die Sitzbezüge.

Lieben Sie es „Weicher“? Wenn Sie den Sitzkomfort (weicher) französischer mögen, entfernen Sie einfach einen Gurt aus der Sitzfläche!
Voilà! So einfach kann es sein!

2 CV Chassis

Made in Germany

1. Das neue Chassis ist mit Hilfe von 140000 Schraubverbindungen ausbleibt vorzeln.

2. Das tragende Blech auf der unteren Seite des Chassis ist oben mit einem Beschützer versehen, der die Bleche vor Korrosion schützt. Er ist aus einem speziellen Material, das an den Blechflächen anliegt.

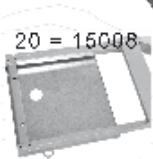

3. Die Klauen der Ausfallarme sind aus einem Material gefertigt, das aus zwei geschichteten Platten besteht.

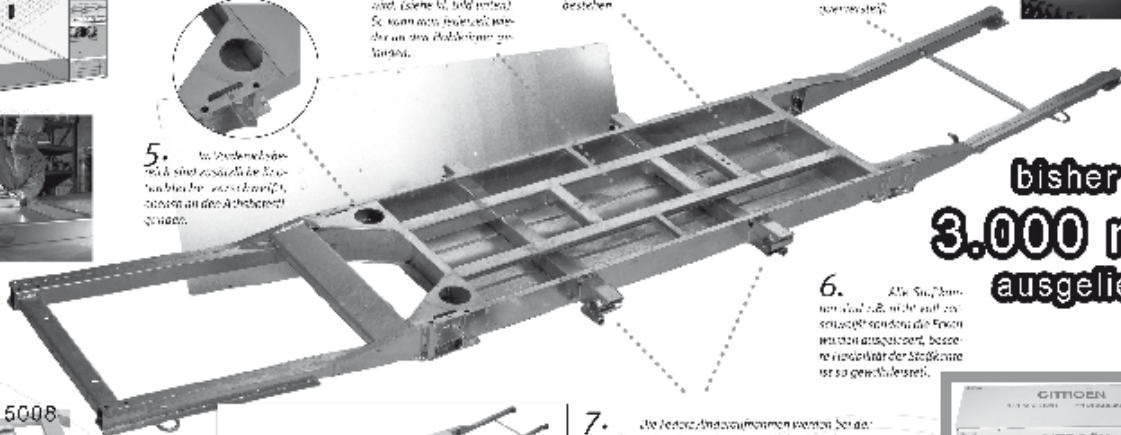

4. Die hinteren Längslager sind aus einem Material gefertigt.

5. In den Blechen sind zusätzliche Lötlücken für eine bessere Verbindung an den Achsbereichen vorgesehen.

8. Auf Wunsch ist das Chassis auch mit einer Schutzschicht versehen.

bisher über 3.000 mal ausgeliefert!

6. Alle Schweißnähte sind mit einem Schutzmittel versehen, das die Korrosion verhindert und die Lebensdauer des Chassis verlängert.

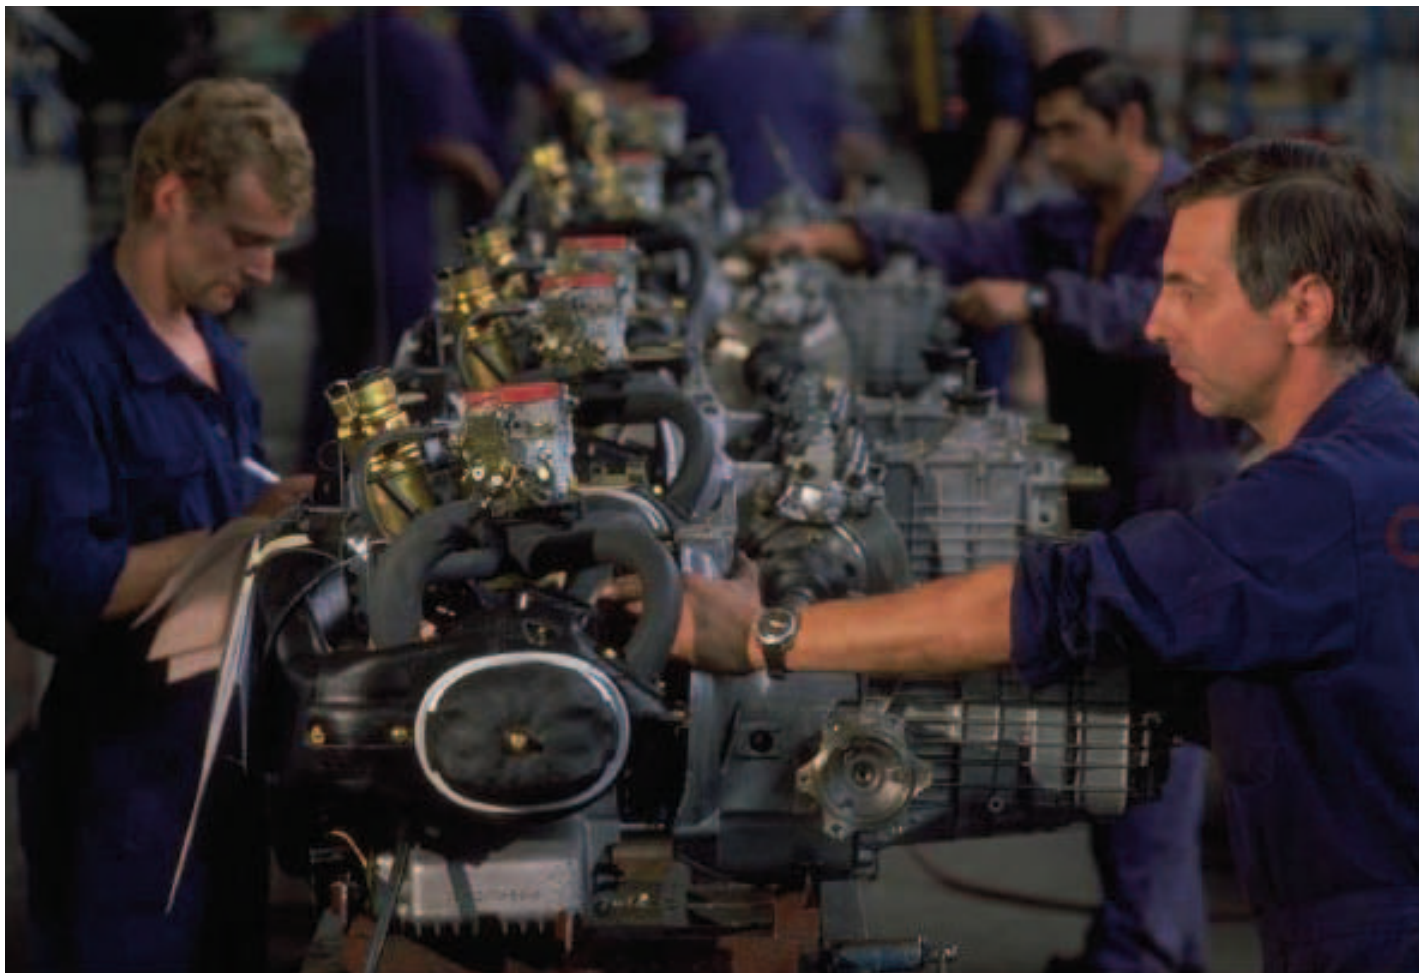

7. Die Federinsassen sind mit einem Schutzmittel versehen, das die Korrosion verhindert und die Lebensdauer des Chassis verlängert.

9. Leimband für Abdichtung des Chassis an den Blechverbindungen.

Castrol TBE

TBE steht für Treibstoff-Blei-Ersatz

Bleiersatz für ältere Motoren

Ventilreiniger für alle Benzin-Motoren!

Castrol TBE ist ein nach modernster Technologie entwickelter Treibstoffzusatz für alle Benzinmotoren.

Seine ausgewogene Wirkstoffkombination ersetzt umweltfreundlich die schmierende Wirkung des Bleis.

Ersetzt umweltfreundlich die schmierende Wirkung von Blei im Ventilbereich, schützt nichtgehärtete Ventilsitze vor Verschleiß, reinigt Vergaser- und Kraftstoffsystem, schützt vor Vereisung und Korrosion. Mischungsverhältnis 1:1000, geeignet für alle Fahrzeuge mit Katalysator. Der Inhalt der 250ml Dosierkopfdose reicht für ca. 250 Liter bleifreies Benzin. Speziell für Oldtimer bei längeren Stillstand-Zeiten empfohlen.

Eigenschaften und Vorteile

- Hervorragende Schmierung im oberen Zylinderbereich
- Verbesserter Verschleißschutz der Ventilsitze
- Einspritzdüsen und Vergaser werden vor Verlackung geschützt und sauber gehalten
- Wirkungsvoller Korrosionsschutz im gesamten Treibstoffsystem
- Vereisungsschutz für ruhigen Motorlauf speziell nach dem Kaltstart

Wir haben mit unseren eigenen Fahrzeugen nur gute Erfahrungen gemacht und können den Benzinzusatz nur empfehlen!

Kindersitz luftikid® für Beckengurt!

Der geniale aufblasbare Kindersitz für Auto, Van, Bus und Flugzeug. Ideal für die Reise, für Mietwagen, für den Zweitwagen, für Oma und Opa... oder eben ständig.

luftikid® ist nach ECE R44/03 zum Straßenverkehr zugelassen für Kinder von ca. 9 Monaten bis ca. 7 Jahren (9 - 25 KG, Gruppe I + II). incl. Pumpe + Transportbeutel luftikid® ist mit allen gängigen Gurtsystemen zu befestigen. Überall wo es einen Beckengurt gibt können Sie luftikid® verwenden. Für kleinere Kinder (bis ca. 4 Jahre / 18 KG) ist es mit einem entsprechenden Rückenteil ausgestattet das später einfach abgenommen wird.

Art.: 13930 nur 111,82 €

luftikid® wird als komplettes Sicherheitssystem im praktischen Schulterrucksack ausgeliefert. Mit der Doppelhubpumpe ist das Luftpokammernsystem im Nu aufgepumpt und einsatzbereit. Durch das Ablassen der Luft ist luftikid® ebenso schnell wieder klein und transportabel.

luftikid® hat zwei Luftpokammern, die Basis (1) und den „Airbag“ (2), der das Kind zurückhält. Dann gibt es noch einen zusätzlichen Bogen für Kleinkinder (3), der ihnen seitlich Halt gibt. Zur Befestigung reicht ein Beckengurt! Er wird einfach durch den luftikid® gezogen, festgeschnallt und gut! An der zusätzlichen Schnalle (4) werden zum Fixieren des Dreipunktgurtes der Schultergurt und der Ansatz des Beckengurtes verschnallt.

luftikid® ist, wenn es nicht gebraucht wird, zusammengefaltet und im mitgelieferten Matchesack ein Sicherungssystem, das man Platz sparend immer mitnehmen kann, ideal auch für die Reise. Für den Gebrauch ist luftikid® innerhalb von nur 1-2 Minuten mit der Systemluftpumpe gefüllt und einsatzbereit. Zusammengefaltet wiegt luftikid® gerade mal 970 Gramm.

Wie funktioniert luftikid® ?

luftikid® wirkt im Prinzip wie ein permanent vorhandener Airbag. Ihr Kind sitzt ganz normal auf dem Auto/ Bus-Sitz und wird nur mit dem Beckengurt zusammen mit dem System luftikid® angeschnallt. Das Anschnallen nur mit dem Beckengurt, ist ein weiterer Sicherheitsaspekt. Damit liegt der Drehpunkt bei einem Frontalaufprall nur in der Hüfte, der Oberkörper wird somit vom Luftkissen abgefangen. Verletzungen im Halswirbelbereich werden enorm reduziert oder ganz vermieden. Crash-Tests mit Dummies verschiedener Gewichtsklassen haben das eindrucksvoll dargestellt. Der Diagonalgurt wird im Auto einfach mit einer am luftikid® angebrachten Klammer "zur Seite" geklemmt.

Geprüfte Sicherheit

luftikid® ist ein Hightech Produkt aus einem hochfesten Spezialgewebe, ähnlich dem Material für Rettungswesten in Flugzeugen. Das Gewebe entspricht allen Anforderungen die im Innenraum eines Flug- oder Fahrzeuges gefordert werden und ist PVC-frei! Der Bereich der Gurtführung wird zusätzlich durch ein Hart-schaumteil verstärkt (FCKW-frei hergestellt!). Der Produktionsbetrieb ist zertifiziert nach ISO9002. Selbstverständlich erfüllt luftikid® die gesetzlichen Sicherheitsanforderungen nach ECE R44/03. Darüber hinaus bestätigt das Bauart-Prüfzeichen des TÜV-Rheinland die ausgezeichnete Produktqualität.

Any assertions to the contrary by customers referring to their own business or purchasing terms are categorically rejected.

2. Conclusion of contract, registration, suspension, cancellation and termination

2.1

The details and information on Der Franzose's website are not binding. By placing an order, customers are making a binding offer to purchase. Der Franzose has a period of two weeks during which it can specifically state that it has accepted the offer. Despatching the goods ordered within this period is the same as a specific statement of acceptance. Simply confirming receipt of the order does not represent a statement of acceptance.

2.2

Users have to register in order to be able to take advantage of all of the services provided by Der Franzose's website. Registration itself is free of charge. It is accomplished by opening an account and agreeing to these terms and conditions. Registration creates a contract between Der Franzose and the user in relation to use of the Der Franzose website (hereinafter referred to as the 'Usage Contract').

2.3

All data requested by Der Franzose during the registration process is to be given accurately and in full, e.g. first and last name, current address and telephone number, a valid e-mail address, plus company name, if relevant. If any changes occur subsequent to registering in respect of any of the data that the user has to provide at that time, then the user has an obligation to correct the data for Der Franzose without delay.

2.4

When registering, users select a password. This password must be kept secret and may not be passed under any circumstances to anyone else.

2.5

In principle, there is no reason why each user may not open multiple accounts. Inappropriate use of multiple accounts, however, is forbidden.

2.6

Der Franzose has the right to suspend a user's account if the user is in violation of the provisions of these terms and conditions or in the course of using the Der Franzose website violates applicable legislation. In particular, Der Franzose has the right to suspend an account if a user

- has registered under false details

- breaches the rights of any third party in connection with his or her use of the Der Franzose website, or

- misuses services provided by Der Franzose.

2.7

As soon as a user's account has been suspended, the user is no longer permitted to use the Der Franzose website and may not re-register without Der Franzose's specific consent.

Der Franzose reserves the right to restrict deliveries of goods to normal retail quantities. Should Der Franzose make use of this option, Der Franzose will inform the customer of this restriction and obtain his or her agreement to this revision of the order.

Users may terminate a 'Usage Contract' at any time. Termination can be notified by a simple written message to Der Franzose Automobiltechnik GmbH, Osloer Straße 9, 49377 Vechta, Germany or an e-mail to info@franzose.de

3. Prices, delivery costs and payment

All prices are in euros and exclusive of post and packaging (delivery costs). Delivery costs are charged as per the prevailing delivery costs table.

4. Delivery deadlines

4.1

Unless any longer delivery time has been agreed, Der Franzose will deliver all goods ordered within 30 days of receipt of order. The delivery deadline is deemed to have been met if goods have left Der Franzose's store within this period. If prepayment has been agreed, no delivery is made until receipt of payment.

4.2

Any agreement of a shorter delivery period or fixed date delivery is only valid if specifically confirmed in writing by Der Franzose.

4.3

If a delivery deadline is exceeded, the customer must give Der Franzose a reasonable additional deadline of at least two weeks.

5. Materials supply caveat

Der Franzose is entitled to cancel the contract if, for reasons beyond its control, it does not receive supplies from its own suppliers. Should Der Franzose make use of this right of cancellation, Der Franzose will inform the customer without delay of its inability to deliver and shall promptly reimburse such amounts as have already been paid against the purchase price.

6. Delivery

If a customer orders more than one item, which due to an inability to deliver everything at once cannot be sent out together, Der Franzose will deliver the goods in partial deliveries as and when they are available, unless due to any functional way in which the items go together or for any other reasons it is apparent that partial delivery would not be in the customer's interest. The flat rate delivery cost will only be charged to the customer once.

7. Consumer's right of return

All items ordered by a consumer can be returned with no conditions attached free of charge and without having to give any reason within a period of two weeks of receiving the goods. A consumer is any customer who orders goods for a purpose that cannot be attributed to any commercial or freelance professional activity of said customer.

Over and above this, Der Franzose grants consumers an extended right of return for articles still in their original packaging. Subject to 7.2 below, such articles may be returned within a period of one year. If sent back after the first two-week period, the cost of returning items must be borne by the customer.

This right of return does not apply to deliveries of newspapers, magazines or illustrated reviews, nor to products made specially to a customer's wishes or uniquely adapted to a customer's personal needs, nor to any goods that are not suitable to be sent back due to the nature of their composition.

7.3

Customers must use robust – if possible, the original – packaging for transportation of returns and should send these to the following address:

Der Franzose Automobiltechnik GmbH

Osloer Straße 9

49377 Vechta

Germany

7.4

If it is not, or is no longer, possible to send the goods back by post, customers can make good their right to return goods through a request for the item to be taken back, which should be made to Der Franzose by post, e-mail (info@franzose.de) or fax (+49 (0)4441 910146). After discussion with the customer, Der Franzose will then arrange for collection free of charge.

7.5

To meet the deadline it is sufficient to send off the goods or request for items to be taken back within the two-week period.

7.6

In the first two weeks after receipt of the goods, any return or collection is at Der Franzose's cost and risk.

7.7

If the goods are sent off or a request to take them back is sent out within the due period, then the customer is no longer tied to the purchase contract. To such extent as the purchase price has already been paid, this will be reimbursed by Der Franzose.

7.8

If the purchase price is being financed in whole or in part by credit from Der Franzose, then the customer is likewise no longer tied to his or her declaration of intent aimed at concluding the credit agreement.

7.9

Important note: Where used or damaged items are sent back, Der Franzose reserves the right to claim reimbursement for any reduction in value or any damage that goes beyond due use of the item as well as for the value of using it. Where applicable, Der Franzose will offset such claims against any previously paid purchase price.

8. Retention of title

8.1

Until full payment of the purchase price, all goods supplied remain Der Franzose's property.

8.2

If the customer is a sole trader, a corporate entity or special public body, Der Franzose shall retain title to the goods supplied until settlement of all debts already in existence at the time of concluding the contract, including all debts arising from subsequent or follow-up orders.

8.3

If the customer is a sole-trader and the order is part of his or her trade, then the customer assigns as security to Der Franzose even now all such receivables in their full amount as shall become due to him or her from selling items on to his or her buyers. The customer shall have the right, revocable by Der Franzose, to collect these debts. Der Franzose will only revoke this right and collect the assigned debts itself if the purchaser falls into arrears with his or her payment obligations towards Der Franzose or an application is made to open insolvency proceedings.

8.4

Der Franzose shall on request of the customer be obliged to release any existing securities to such extent as their value exceeds the debts to be secured by more than 50%. The choice of which securities to release shall be at Der Franzose's discretion.

9. General warranty terms

The customer has an obligation to check all goods on receipt and to notify Der Franzose immediately, and in any case not later than within a deadline of two weeks, of any evident defects. The customer shall be under the same obligation in the event of any other defects to the purchased goods from such time as these are discovered. Any complaints should be sent to the address shown at clause 7.3. If Der Franzose is not notified within the prescribed time, then in relation to these defects the goods are deemed to have been approved. The customer shall thus be unable to assert any warranty claims in this respect.

9.2

For deliveries of used goods, no claims for compensation will be entertained due to any defects to the items purchased, save only if Der Franzose has concealed such defects in bad faith.

10. Special warranty terms for companies

10.1

If the customer is a company, used goods are sold without any warranty of any kind unless anything different has been agreed in writing or Der Franzose has concealed a defect in bad faith.

10.2

If the customer is a sole-trader and the order is part of his or her business, then for any complaints, contrary to clause 9.1, statutory provisions apply.

11. Expiry of warranty rights

11.1

For deliveries of used goods, customers' rights to make claims due to any defect of the items purchased expire after a period of one year from delivery.

11.2

If the customer is a company, then the expiry period as per clause 11.1 also applies to new products. Article 479 of the German Civil Code (BGB) remains unaffected by this.

12. Liability

No matter for what legal reason a liability may arise, Der Franzose, as well as its representatives and agents, shall be liable only for such damage or losses as can typically be foreseen and that relate to breaches of material contractual obligations. This limitation shall not apply to any damage or losses caused by gross negligence or wilful intent, nor to personal injuries, damage or losses relating to the absence of a warranted product characteristic, nor to such for which liability is provided in accordance with product liability legislation.

13. No right of offset

Customers are not entitled to offset any charges unless the counter claims in question have been recognised by Der Franzose or ruled valid by the courts.

14. Final provisions

Any side or other agreements or statements of intent by either of the contracting parties must be in written form.

14.2

The place of execution shall be the registered office of Der Franzose.

14.3

If the customer is a sole trader, a corporate entity or special public body, then jurisdiction for any and all disputes arising out of the contractual relationship shall rest exclusively with the courts of Vechta.

14.4

The contract shall be governed exclusively by the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany. The UN Sale of Goods Act and German International Civil Law shall not apply.

15. Copyright

The layout of the Der Franzose website and these general terms and conditions may only be copied and used on other websites with Der Franzose's prior approval.

16. Amendments and severability

Der Franzose reserves the right to amend these terms and conditions at any time and without giving any reason. Users will be notified of the amended provisions on this page. All users not objecting to the new terms and conditions within a period of two weeks of such amendment shall be deemed to have accepted the amended terms.

If any provision of these terms and conditions is invalid, the remaining provisions remain unaffected by this. The invalid provision is deemed to be replaced by such provision as comes closest in a legally valid way to the spirit and intent of the invalid provision. The same applies for any omissions.
